Hi (b) (4),

Sure thing. The test failure notification date is the date that you were notified by EPA regarding the failure.

Thanks,
Shannon

Thanks Shannon, one more thing for the moment. The test failure notification date: Do I list the date notified from EPA or the test lab?

Hi (b) (4),

The (b) (4) is the company that manufactures the product that is ENERGY STAR labeled - if you manufacture your own products then your company is the (b) (4). The product category is windows, doors, and skylights.

Regarding the disqualifications, only the model that were qualified on the same basis as model (b) (4) are affected by the failure of model (b) (4). If only (b) (4) were certified using the same data as (b) (4), then they are the ones affected by the failure. Let me know if that makes sense or if you have additional questions.

Thanks,

Shannon Christie

Mariah - We received our notice yesterday, and I wanted to touch base with you. I have a couple of questions.

On the Partner Response Form, Is my company the (b) (4)? Is the Energy Star product Category windows?

In our notification from EPA, the way I read this, Our model (b) (4) are the models in question; Other models within the (b) (4) are not effected. Is that correct?

Our company has never failed any certification testing, so this is very important to the success of our business. I look forward to any help or suggestions. Thanks.
